Participants-Washington Toughs Decide the Contest-Washington Notes,

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 22 .- [Special.]-Very early yesterday morning a crowd of about 200 men disembarked from a couple of barges in tow of a tug at Old White House Landing, eighteen miles below Washington on the Potomac. The appearance and aspect of the party indicated very plainly that a prize fight was on hand. The match was between W. S. Layton, a middle-weight fighter of Rosnoke, Va., and William Nally, a boxer of Washington. The prize for which the battle was arranged was the gate receipts, which amounted to about $400. The promoters, in order to swell their earnings, had established a bar on one of the barges, and during the three hours' run down the river many of the sports got ran down the river many of the sports got fighting drunk. As a natural consequence there were many quarrels and several encounters not down on the regular programme. Upon landing the ring was pitched in a hollow under some willow trees. The Virginian was the first to appear in the ring, and he was greeted with cheers, he fought at about 135 pounds and looked to be in very fair condition. In a moment more Nally sprang lightly over the ropes, accompanied by his second, A. P. O'Conner, of Washington. Jimmy Keenau, of Baltimore, was Layton's second. George Northbridge, of Washington, was chosen referee and Jack Cavton, was chosen referee and Jack Cavanagh, of Baltimore, time-keeper. Nally may have outweighed Layton several pounds. The betting was in Layton's favor. pounds. The betting was in Layton's favor. The Virginian was entirely cool and self-possessed, while Nally plainly showed signs of nervousness.

Just at half-past 7 o'clock time was called. The men approached each other cautiously, each sparring for an opening. Nally got in the first blow on the Virginian's body, but he suffered for it, as the latter countered cleverly on the Washingtonian's side face. Some close infighting followed. Nally evidently going for Layton's wind. Then followed a succession of what Then followed a succession of what sounded like heavy blows, but no claret flowed. The men clinched and amidst cries of "foul, foul" outsiders invaded the ring. The referee refused to consider the claim and ordered the men apart.

In the second and, as it proved, final round Nally appeared to better advantage, having apparently overcome his nervousness. However, Layton still looked the better man and those who counted upon a fair fight expected him to win. Nally led off, getting in a light blow on Layton's neck, but the latter countered quite cleverly and both closed. The blows fell thick and fast. Layton freed himself and was slowly backing towards the ropes, as many believed for the purpose of getting in some telling blows. He showed no signs of distress or weakness. Suddenly no signs of distress or weakness. Suddenly Nally made a rush and struck Layton. The Naily made a rush and struck Layton. The latter fell near his corner, but the fall was apparently more of a stumble than from the effect of Naily's fiets Layton quickly raised himself upon his elbows and would no doubt have been upon his feet in a second, when a dozen men rushed into the ring and four or five purposely fell on top of the Virginian. The wildest accitement ensued and a free fight wildest excitement ensued, and a free fight was almost provoked by the referee deciding in favor of Nally, calling Layton's tumble a knock-out. The Virginian's second protested, whereupon Nally's second grasped the axe with which the ring-stakes had been driven and attempted to silence the protesting shouts by force. Several revolvers were drawn, but fortunately there were sober and cool-headed men enough to interpose and prevent bloodshed. Neither party to the fight was punished in the least, and it was plain that had not Layton been interfered with he would have been on his feet and at the scratch in time.

Several more drunken rows followed the decision. When the party essayed to return it was found that the receding tide had left the barges and tug high and dry. The newspaper men, including THE TIMES correspondent, and some spectators, crossed the river in skiffs and returned home on an excursion vessel. There was no interference from officers of the law. Among the spectators were thirty or forty Virginians, some of them residents of the vicinity. DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS.

At Democratic headquarters in this city reports from local committees and from in-dividuals in the shape of letters are being received at the rate of several hundred per day. It is an encouraging fact that without exception the reports from the Southern States are to the effect that the Third party disaffection is rapidly subsiding, and that the Democrats are getting together to pre-vent Force billegislation. These reports also state that the Third party scare is doing good work in the South, as it has impelled thousands of Democrats who have taken small interest in elections during the last few years to enroll themselves in party or-ganizations and labor zealously for the cause.

FOUR CHILDREN DEAD. Four children of Lemuel Massey, a farmer residing near Butt's Cross Roads, Alexandria county, have died of diphtheria within the last several days. The family consisted of father, mother and seven children, and all were down with the disease at the same time. Neighbors were afraid to visit them because of danger of contagion. However, relief has now been afforded. The four children were buried together.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE.

A So. Called Desperate Miner Promises to Turn State's Evidence.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., August 22 .- A spnsational episode occurred last night at Coal Creek. The leader of the most daring, most lawless and most troublesome body of miners was Bud Lindsay. To his machinations has been due much of the turbulence on the Creek. He has made himself so obnoxious to the more conservative miners and to citizens not in sympathy with the rioting that he has been a marked figure, and only his keeping within safe distance of the only his keeping within safe distance of the military since his capture, and generally be-tween four walls, has prevented his being

A SUNDAY PRIZE FIGHT killed. For several nights he was confined in an old mine and the mouth guarded by a large squad of soldiers. Affairs during the day have been so quiet, the submission of the miners so general, that watch was somewhat relaxed, and Lindsey had lost some of his fear and wandered more widely within the enclosure.

Last night, in a way no one seems to understand, four citizens managed to seize and silence him, and in the dusk slipped him between the pickets. He was hurried up the valley towards Briceville, and the mob. which gained force slmost at every step, hurried him forward, fearing the pursuit of soldiers. The journey was not ended until Briceville, the scene of the labor troubles has year and the home of the more conservative class of miners, was more conservative class of miners, was Once there a rope was secured and placed around his neck. His true character was soon seen. Though considered a desperate man, and although he has at least a dozen man, and although he has at least a dozen murders to his account, he broke down and begged for his life with all possible fervor. His pleadings and lamentations were effective. His life was promised on the solemn promise that to day he will turn State's evidence and reveal the names and plans of all the leaders tall begins and plans of all the leaders tall begins and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the leaders tall the same and plans of all the same and plans plans of all the leaders; tell how the mob was raised, the nature of the oath, the names of miners known to have killed sol-diers or guards; in short, to reveal to the civil authorities all of the lawlessness that has reigned, and this he has agreed to testi-

When all this was promised he was returned to the camp for safe keeping. It is now believed that with his testimony twen-ty or thirty leaders can be successfully tried for murder and convicted.

MORE LEADERS ARRESTED,

KNOXVILLE, August 22.—One of the suspects is Jim Hatmaker, son of John Hatmaker, who led the attack on the stockade maker, who led the attack on the stockade at Oliver Springs last Tuesday. Every possible attempt is being made to apprehend the elder Hatmaker. He was of the greatest prominence in all the mining troubles, and is supposed to have escaped to Kentucky. Another man who is wanted to Kentucky. Another man who is wanted to Kentucky. Another man who is wanted is L. A. Roescher, a German, who for the past year has conducted a shooting-gallery on the creek. He is a practiced sharp-shooter, and last week went to a high point overlooking Fort Anderson and erected himself a small barricade. From behind this he kept up a constant fire, and it is believed that he killed Private Smith. Proof sufficient to show that he was an Aparchist of propounced views has was an Anarchist of pronounced views has been discovered. He has been very active among the miners since his arrival at Coal Creek, and many believe that he has directed in person the attempts on property and human life recently made in that vicinity. All the leaders prominent in the labor troubles of the past eighteen months, as a Linden are about from months, save Lindsay, are absent from Coal Creek on what will prove to be an ex-tended vacation, and the deluded miners and citizens who were led into open rebel-lion against the State are left to suffer all the penalties. George E. Irish, well known in Coal Creek, who has been known and rein Coal Creek, who has been known and recognized for months as a leader and adviser of the miners, is in demand. This morning the Knox county officials were given authority to arrest Irish at once. They started on the search, but soon found that he had left the city. Irish was arrested at Lyons View by Deputy Sheriff Hall, the arrest having been made in accordance with orders from General Carnes. He was taken to Coal Creek this evening. Charles T. Alleman, assistant mine inspector for the State, is wanted at Coal Creek by military officials. He is charged with having acted in concert with the miners for months and has aided Labor Commissioner Ford in keeping miners posted missioner Ford in keeping miners posted in all the movements of the State military forces and civil authorities. Alleman went to Coal Creek last Thursday, but has not been seen there since early that afternoon. This morning certain men who had authority to arrest Alleman arrived in this city. They sourced at one arrived in this city. the aid of the local authorities and a thorough search is now being made for the man. Commissioner Ford gave bond to-day in the sum of $10,000. He was released by Gensum of $10,000. He was released by General Carnes, and is now at his residence in

The latest sensation at Coal Creek is that the mines are to be smoked in order to drive out the miners who are supposed to be hiding in the bowels of the earth.

BIOT ALARM SOUNDED. The riot slarm was rung in Knorville The riot alarm was rung in knowline again to-day. Joseph Goodman, proprietor of a boarding-house on Hardes-treet, where the miners make their headquarters, and Captain W. L. Ledgerwood, captain of one of the companies of Knoxville volunteers in the Coal Creek war, met at the postoffice about noon and started to discuss the situation. Goodman roundly abused the citiabout noon and started to discuss the situa-tion. Goodman roundly abused the citi-zens who had gone to the front and this incensed Ledgerwood, who retaliated in kind. Ledgerwood, seeing Goodman wabout to strike, hit him and was in turn struck with a stick. A fight followed, in which both men fought desperately; but neither was dangerously hurt, and were separated. The news of the fight spread rapidly, and before Goodman had reached Gay street several of the Knoxville volunteers were madly chasing him. They thought Goodman was going back to his boarding-house to report to some miners who were stopping there. James Harris was at the head of the crowd with a gun. They caught Goodman at the corner of Gay and Vine streets and soon had him escorted by policemen to the City Hall, where he was locked up. The riot alarm had been sounded in the meantime but the excitement soon subsided. More Tennessee Miners Arrested.

KNOXVILLE, August 22.—Twenty-three men supposed to be in sympathy with the most notorious of the miners were arrested near Coal Creek to-day and locked up. Several of them are suspected of holding up the mail train between Clinton and Coal Creek last Thursday night.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Stevenson in New York-Carl Schurz fer Cleveland.

New York, August 22.-General Adlai E. Stevenson received a number of callers at the Hoffman House to-day, where he is stopping. The General and Don M. Dickinson were elected members of the sub-committee to look after the West. Mr. Dickinson, who has been ill at his brother's cottage at Bay Ridge, returned to this city to-day. He looks anything but a well man. It is stated that he will delegate some one to go to Chicago in his place, and that he will remain in this city. The Democratic State headquarters will be opened at the Honman house some time this week.

Among the callers at the Republican Among the caners at the Republican headquarters this morning was Major Mc-kinley. LIZZIE BORDEN IN COURT.

Taken to Fall River.- A Singular Statement from Pittsburg.

FALL RIVER, MASS., August 22.-Miss Lizzie A. Borden arrived here from Taunton at 10:55 o'clock this morning and will be given a preliminary hearing on the charge of murder this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. She sat in the middle of a reguo'clock. She sat in the middle of a regular passenger-car on the way from Taunton, and attracted no attention until she was half way to this city. It was then noised about on the train that the girl who was charged with killing her father and is suspected of killing her mother was on the train. Some of the passengers passed and repassed her seat, but she sat with her face turned toward the window and her vell face turned toward the window and her veil drawn closely over her eyes. She did not show the slightest trace of suffering and show the slightest trace of suffering and did not in any degree mind the attention she was attracting. She stepped from the train in this city, assisted by Rev. Mr. Buck, and was escorted to a closed carriage by Detective Seaver and City Marshal Hillard. The carriage was driven by a circuitous route to the Central station, where Miss Borden was handed over to Matron Russell and taken to the matron's room. Her sister, Mrs. Brigham, Attorney Jennings and Attorney Adams were in attendance to receive her, and they talked together for some time. As early as 11 o'clock preparations were being made in the count-room for the hearing. In the seats usually occupied by a rough crowd of idlers finely dressed women and men began to gather as early as 12 o'clock, and at 12:30 standing room could not be had. It is reported here this morning that Miss Borden has made an assignment of all of her personal property to her counsel, with the instructions to spare no expense in gaining her freedom. Miss Emma Borden has also given orders to spare nothing in the way of labor and expense. Mr. Jennings has given up his other legal work and is devoting his entire time to the interest of his client. entire time to the interest of his client.

A STRANGE STORY FROM PITTSBURG. PITTSBURG, PA., August 22.—The Dispatch

Pittsburg, Pa., August 22.—The Dispatch this morning prints a sensational anonymous letter written at the Monongahela House in this city, in which the writer asserts that Lizzie Borden is innocent of the murder of her father and stepmother.

The author of the strange communication says: "I was in New Yerk when the murder took place, and as soon as Hearned that one of these men did it Heft and came to this city. The one who did the act said he went into the house to get something to eat, and as he found no one in the front room, he went up stairs and went into a room. While he was there the lady came in on him She hallooed and he hit her with a large knife or ax that he carries in a case in his pantaloons leg. It will weigh as much as three pounds and is not twelve inches long. He came down stairs and started out the back way and met the old man. As he did not want to leave any one to describe him he killed the old man and then went out the back way after the daughter came in the house. He said he would have killed her if she had seen him. This man and one or two of his friends were in the South about four years ago, and while they were in Georgia near Macon they had a little trouble with a farmer named Woolfolk. So they went to his house one night and killed all of them but his son and he got away. So they took some or his clothes and threw them, with blood on them, into the well. The clothes were found, and, as they could not find any other clue to work on, the son was arrested, tried and hanged." The police are skeptical as to the genuineness of the information, but are trying to find the writer of the letter. letter

THE BUFFALO LABOR TROUBLES. Work Progressing Slowly and With Much Difficulty.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 22.-Everything is running smoothly at the Central elevators, the only interruption being caused by the breaking of some cars hauling machinery. In all 300,000 to 350,000 bushels have been taken out and sent on its way east during the past twenty-four hours. The Erie is doing well and the Niagara houses have been able to take quite a fair amount this morning. There is a large quantity of grain in store here. In addition to the large fleet of vessels that are lying in the barber (from thirty to forty) the amount harbor (from thirty to forty) the amount of grain figures up over 3,000,000 bushels. The Lehigh Valley Company have several crews at work to-day and the tracks on Tifft farm are being cleared up. A RACE WITH DEATH.

A Terror-Stricken Wife's Pursuit of Her Maniac Husband.

New York, August 22 .- The piercing screams of a woman calling for help roused the neighborhood of East Fifty-sixth street, near the river, shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, and the novel sight of a woman partially undressed running frantically after a man who was making for the river caused a number of heads to pop out from windows and prompt ed others to run to the street. As the peo pie looked they saw the man who was run-ning toward the river and was within a short distance of the string pier of the dock slacken his pace, then stagger and throw up his hands, and, with a shout as though it pain, fall dead. The woman who had been running after him soon reached the pros trate form of the man and when she looked at him screamed for help. Several peo-ple answered and the woman, in a hysterical way, said that the man was her husband, Carl Axelson, a foreman in the Hammond typewriter manu-factory, and residing at No. 556 east Fiftysixth street, Axelson was a sober, industrious workman and until last May the family was happy and sixth May the family was happy and comfortable. Axelson's little boy was taken sick about that time and died, and the man began to brood over it until he became moody and morose. Shortly before began to brood over it until he became moody and morose. Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning the man awakened his wife and told her he was going to commit suicide, at the same time taking a small bottle from his vest pocket. The terrified woman leaped out of bed and tried to snatch the bottle from him. A struggle ensued, during which he suddenly turned his back to her, and before she could get possession of it he swallowed the contents, putting the bottle in his pocket. Breaking away from her he ran to the door of the room, opened it and dashed down stairs to the street. The woman screamed and aroused the neighborhood. Headed by the terror-stricken wife borhood. Headed by the terror-stricken wife a few people followed the maniac, who ran for the pier at the foot of the street, practically racing with death. He had reached the pier and was making for the string pier and was within a few feet of it, when he staggered, threw up his arms and was apparently about to leap into the water, when he suddenly stopped, and, as noted above, fell dead

Temeran, August 22.—In Tabriz the number of deaths from cholera has fallen to sixty daily. The plague rages severely in Teheran. The Vice-Governor and his wife died to-day. The deaths number from 800 to 900 daily. At Tabriz, the Mollahs, whose influence over the populace is very bowerful, preached to the people that the outbreak of cholera was due to the sale of alcoholic liquors. The mob forthwith set about plundering the liquor shops. The disturbances were suppressed with much difficulty.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION Sole Topic of Discussion in Canada-Refusal Discussed. OTTAWA, ONT., August 22.-President Harrison's proclamation against Canada is the sole topic of conversation here. The move was unexpected and will likely necessitate the early meeting of the Cabinet. Will Canada back down? That is the question everybody is asking. Although no official opinion can be learned in the absence of various officials, there was a general impression that the Government having taken action by declining to abolish the rebate of the canni tolls until the end of the season will not humiliate itself by a complete back down. Unsuccessful in reciprocity negotiations at Washington, it will be unwilling to adopt any course which would assist the Republicans in the presidential campaign. Work on the new Canadian canal at the Soo will be pressed forward day and night, and but a year will elapse before it can be completed. The newspapers are seriously urging the Government to pay the canal tolls for the Canadian vessels passing through the Soo canal, Many are also agitating for a policy of reprisals in Welland canal.

DIED FROM HEAT.

Austriau Soldiers Forced to March in Broil-ing Sun. VIENNA, August 22.-Emperor Francis Joseph has countermanded the orders for the holding of the military manoeuvres, which were fixed for August 29th, owing to the intense heat. The action of the Em-peror was due to the reports received from Carniola, where manouvres have been held notwithstanding the extremely hot weather. The soldiers were in heavy marching order and were compelled to take the field in the broiling sun and march and countermarch, charge and recharge with all their accourtements. The result was that two hundred of them were sunstruck. Eleven of the two hundred died. There is a feeling of indignation that the military authorities should have forced the men to manouvre in such

STRONG LANGUAGE

Used by the London Daily News About the Strikers.

LONDON, August 22 .- The Daily News commenting on the American strikers, strongly denounces what is termed the "barbarous and treacherous" methods of the strikers, especially the miners. It says: "These men are not entitled to the name "strikers" in its ordinary sense. They are strikers in its ordinary sense. They are not even insurgents, who respect the ordinary laws of war. They are destroyers of life and property. No wonder that public feeling throughout America is aroused to a great degree against these despoilers, and bearing the circumstances in mind we must make due allowance for the substance. and tone of Governor Buchanan's proclama-tion. We do not desire to see the rioters lynched, but it will be an evil day for democracy if such acts of brutality escape just punishment.

Suicids in London.

London, August 22. It is now definitely known that the American gentleman who committed suicide on Friday at Morley's Hotel was Brigadier-General Henry Prince. aged eighty-two, a retired officer of the American army, General Prince left a letter addressed to "all my friends," in which he said that death was a relief which physicians ought to bring about when a man's life becomes wasted by nature. At the inquest to-day a verdiet of 'temporary in-sanity' was delivered. General Prince had shot himself with a revolver and was found dead. He is supposed to have been des-pondent on account of being old and loneliness.

The depression in silver continues to be the dominant influence on the London Stock Exchange. Rumor deals freely with the financial positions of some Eastern banks and important private firms. Eastern bills are in disfavor, but beyond the generally accepted fact that these banks and firms are pinched by the currency disorders nothing is known justifying reports of insolvency.

The police of San Sebastian on Friday night arrested by mistake the American Charge d'Affaires at Madrid, who has been staying at San Sebastian in order to confer with the Minister of the Colonies on the Cuban commercial treaty. When his identity was made known he was immediately liberated with profuse apologies, which were accepted by the Charge. The offending police agents have been suspended.

The committee of the Melbourne shareholders of the Mercantile Bank of Australia report that the bank has been insolvent since 1889. They also report that Sir Mat-thew Davies, the chairman of the directorate, made advances to various companies he promoted, losing £500,000 in such outlays. It is probable that the shareholders will be obliged to meet a deficit of £475,000. London shareholders largely bought issues at a premium. Threats of criminal presecution are made against the chairman and direc-

A serious labor riot occurred Sunday at Ekaterinoslay, Russia. Workmen employed in the Hughes steel rail factory set fire to a number of workmen's dwellings, plundered the factory and had begun to demolish the furnaces when a military detachment that had been summoned arrived on the scene. A sharp encounter then took place between the troops and the workmen and several persons were killed and a large number wounded before the riot was suppressed. The damage done to property is so great that it will take three months to effect repairs.

In consequence of the fall of silver the Saxon Government has decided not to complete its work on the Kothechoenberger Stollen, the longest tunnel in the world, The tunnel was intended to drain water from all the Freiberg silver mines and carry it to the Elbe. The main tunnel is of the same length as the St. Gothard tunnel. Its branches, however, add twenty-one miles to its length, making the total extent almost thirty miles. The tunnel was began at State expense in 1844 and, after thirty-three years of continuous work, it was opened in April, 1877. Hundreds of men are thrown out of employment by the Government's hot spell. GOVERNOR FLOWER'S GOOD SENSE In Sending Troops Enough to De Effective

Service. WATERTOWN, N. Y., August 22.-In an interview with a reporter of the United Press Governor Flower said, in reference to the criticisms that have been made on his action in sending so many troops to the scene of the strike: "When the proper authori-ties at Buffalo informed me that the 2,000 militiamen of the locality were trying to protect a territory so vast that it was necessary to place every man in constant danger, and when they asked for more troops to lessen this danger to life as well as to protect property, the State could do no less than to send enough troops to preventall possibility of a riot and bloodshed. It was dearly the strikers as well as to the militial contract of the strikers as well as to the militial contract. due to the strikers as well as to the militia-men and the owners of the property inyolved, but we gave ample protection to all, for the strikers are not the ones from whom serious trouble is feared. That comes from the lawless element, the 'hangers-on' who invariably gather at such places and find plea sure and profit in stirring up strife and causing wreck and ruin. In a city like Buffalo this element number many thousands.
